PHILOSOPHY IN THE TIME OF WAR

The core objective is to create a space where displaced and marginalized voices, particularly from conflict zones can engage in critical dialogue with European academic and intellectual communities. Through lectures, panels, artistic performances, the publication of a special trilingual edition of Arman Magazine and film projections, this initiative will explore how philosophical thought can foster peacebuilding, intellectual resistance, and human solidarity beyond borders.

ÉCO-LANTA

This is a civic, ecological, and social education project designed by young people, for young people from underprivileged urban areas. Over 9 months, it offers a series of monthly activities based on four main objectives: raising awareness about environmental issues, creating spaces for dialogue, strengthening group cohesion, and fostering autonomy.

The project involves around 50 young participants, with 20 selected for a final camp inspired by the French TV show Koh Lanta. ECO-LANTA promotes inclusion, engagement, and equality while reconnecting youth with their environment.

AVEC TOI

This project is an initiative that aims to strengthen the social, academic, and cultural integration of newly arrived international students in Orléans, with particular attention to those facing precarious living conditions, through a human-centered, solidarity-based and structured approach, and empowerment.

Avec Toi directly contributes to the objectives of the YOU(th) CARE for Change programme: inclusion, youth participation, social justice, and structural transformation. It embodies a model of integration rooted in care, dignity, and collective agency.
